

ROLLER COASTER

For designing a roller coaster, mathematics are essential.

The merry-go-round must be able to curb but it mustn't shiver.

Mathematics are used to calculate the strength which acts on the train (up and down), on the structure of the merry-go-round, and also to take into account that the humans bodies have to resist to the strength.

